DUBLIN INTERNATIONAL DISPUTES WEEK 2023

Dublin International Disputes Week 2023 (DIDW2023) is a new forum for international practitioners and general counsel, providing access to thought leaders and prominent international practitioners specialising in litigating complex, cross-border disputes. Part of the Government of Ireland's Ireland for Law initiative, the week will feature a range of physical and virtual events, including a two-day conference, round tables, seminars and social events showcasing local Irish expertise in collaboration with a range of international panellists.

Recognising the specialist nature of the strategic management of international litigation, DIDW2023 offers a fantastic programme of panel sessions, discussing the key issues facing litigators and corporate litigants, including: insolvency and cross-border restructuring; fraud and asset recovery; intellectual property; product liability; tech and data disputes; international arbitration; post-Brexit enforcement; and, judicial co-operation, with practical perspectives and strategic analysis from a wide range of subject matter experts. Ireland's unique position as the only remaining English-speaking common law jurisdiction in the European Union, and the significant growth in complex international litigation and transactions through the Irish High Court make Dublin the ideal venue for exploring the key issues facing international litigators and general counsel.

TICKET PRICES:

Main conference ticket: €350

Including attendance at Monday's opening reception, Tuesday/Wednesday's conference sessions and the conference gala dinner
